

Introduction to Canadian Studies

Winter 2023 • C/AM 200 • Instructor: Butch Kamena

MWF 10 - 11:20 a.m.

CRN 10286 • 5 credits

A broad interdisciplinary survey course which introduces students to the study of the territory presently known as Canada. Topics include human-environment relationships; Indigenous peoples and settler colonialism; the development of present-day cultural, political and economic systems; and the impact of U.S.-Canada relations.

An understanding of Canada is valuable not only to provide a better understanding of a nearby neighbor, but also to gain a better understanding of the U.S. itself.
